

The CRC Student Research Supplies/Equipment Grant, of up to $250 for each student, is awarded to MU students that are pursuing a research project under the supervision of at least one MU faculty member or staff member. Therefore, please keep in mind that the full cost of equipment and supplies for that research may not be able to be covered by this grant. Awarding each grant is also based on available budgetary funds, so please be sure to apply for the grant as soon as possible after the research project has been developed. In the event of multiple students applying for a grant, grant funding may not be available due to the budgetary needs of staging the MU CRC Symposium each spring (although, further CRC Student Research Supplies/Equipment Grant funding might be available after the Symposium has been completed). Also, research projects eligible for this funding must have a Methodist University student or students directly involved, as well as an advisor or advisors that are currently employed by Methodist University. This grant is only available for MU student-based research, and all funds must be used only for supplies and materials directly related to the research project for which the grant has been requested. Furthermore, all items purchased through this grant will be considered as Methodist University property and must be used and handled in accordance with Methodist University policy.

***IMPORTANT

All student projects involving the use of human and/or vertebrate animal participants/subjects must meet the requirements of, and gain approval from Methodist's IRB. Research outside of a graded class may also be subject to IRB approval. Grants may be awarded prior to the approval but no funds will be received until the grant recipient(s) provide proof of IRB approval to the CRC. Faculty mentors are responsible for ensuring compliance with IRB review. If you have questions regarding whether the project requires IRB approval, please contact the IRB Chair.
