

The CRC Student Research Travel Grant, of up to $250 for each student, is awarded to MU students that have had a presentation proposal accepted at a future conference (professional or academic), and that need funding for conference fees (registration, membership required for presentation, etc.), travel, and accommodations in order to attend the conference and give their presentation. Awarding each grant is also based on available budgetary funds, so please be sure to apply for the grant as soon as possible after the presentation has been accepted. In the event of multiple students applying for a grant, grant funding may not be available due to the budgetary needs of staging the MU CRC Symposium each spring (although, further CRC Student Research Travel Grant funding might be available after the Symposium has been completed). An accepted presentation, in live oral format and/or poster format, is eligible. Furthermore, conference fees for an online conference in which a student is giving a presentation are also eligible for grant funding. Unfortunately, funding for expenses beyond those listed above is not able to be awarded (like for per diem, as an example).

Note: You do have the option of viewing this grant request as a PDF before actually filling out the CRC Student Research Travel Grant application.
